Mama, don't take my Cibachrome away... Canadian photographer Lynne Huntley-Wyczolkowski's Cibachrome florals are on display at the Herringer Kiss Gallery as part of the ongoing Exposure 2006 series of photo exhibitions in Banff, Canmore and Calgary. The Cibachrome technique uses colour slide film on a special polyester-based paper embedded with colour dyes that are selectively bleached out, giving you those 'nice, bright colours.' The current exhibition of Mapplethorpe blossoms runs until Saturday, March 4.
